School Board approves four new positions

By JAMES COOK
Times Editor

The Powell County School Board meeting last Monday evening had a lot on the agenda, but most of it was quickly handled. However, there was some discussions about new positions being created, a chemical hygiene plan being accepted and an answer to a question about adding days back to some administrators.

The board opened the meeting by honoring the 2014 Lady Pirates high school softball team. The team made it to the region finals after a slow start. That was the nice part of the meeting.

The board quickly approved their consent agenda of items like declaring a surplus auction for July 26, minutes of special meetings, the superintendents travel expenses, bus trip requests and setting up a walk-through of the schools before schools start. Then they got to the more serious business side.

The board was asked by current high school softball coach about the position of assistant athletic director that was on the agenda for discussion and approval. Faulkner asked if the position would be posted and applications taken or if the job had already been filled. According to Faulkner, the staff had been advised earlier in the day by a school administrator that the position had been filled. Board member Donald Curtis seconded that sentiment, at least when it came to the question of the positions being created being posted.

"Anytime we create a position, it will be posted and applications taken," Superintendent Mike Tate answered. "We will look at the applicants, interviews held and we may look at some a little more due to their experience in the field that position is created. But yes, to answer your question, they will be posted." Faulkner thanked Tate and the board for listening and answering.

cuss and approved four positions during the meeting. The board approved a transportation area assistant to help newly appointed director of the transportation department Monroe Jones. The salary will be based on the salary table for the area.

The board also approved the assistant athletic director position, to once again assist Jones. The newly approved position will receive a stipend of $3,500 for the year. They also approved the position of secretary to the superintendent, with a $2,500 stipend and a chemical hygiene officer, who will receive a $500 stipend. Those stipends will be divided over 26 pay periods.

Of the last three positions, the only one that apparently is one the state says is needed is the chemical hygiene officer.

Soccer teams approved for both PCHS & PCMS; volleyball at PCMS

Board approved a proposal last week to start the new sport at both the middle school and high school levels for the 2014-2015 school year. Soccer, has been growing steadily over the past five years with both spring and fall leagues. At one point the leagues were reporting almost 400 kids were playing at various age groups.

Last year the school district recognized soccer as a club sport at the middle school. The team played several other clubs and performed rather well. So with those students moving up to PCHS and more coming to the middle school, the timing seemed to be right.

There has been timetable set up as of press time as to when the teams will be playing with other KHSAA teams or what district and region the teams will play in. Districts and regions for soccer are different than for most sports Powell competes in, much like football is. More than likely, because most schools begin playing the fall sport on Aug. 18, Powell may not be able to field a team this year, but could begin organizing for next season.

The board approved both a boys and girls team.

The board also approved establishing a middle school volleyball team beginning in the 2015-2016 school year. The high school volleyball team has had a lot of success over the past decade, winning seven straight district titles and tournament championships. They are also considered a regional powerhouse.

"A middle school team will only enhance the high school team as a feeder program," board member Marty Burton said at the meeting. Fellow board member Donald Curtis agreed. Both had or have children that played or are playing for the high school team.

These young players will now have a chance to play high school soccer thanks to a decision by the school board.

WBFC changes format to become more 'family friendly'

By JAMES COOK
Times Editor

The times are always changing and so too are the ways of telling someone about something you believe in. What may have worked 30 or 40 years ago may not be as successful with today's younger crowd. That was the dilemma that James, Beverly and William Combs have been dealing with it. The Combs family owns and operates the local gospel AM station, WBFC.

But who says that a message has to be told the same way, as long as the message tells the same story. Even in a different, updated style.

The station has went out on a limb, so to speak, and have decided to become a "family friendly" station. That means they have something for everyone, including the younger contemporary Christian crowd.

Since July 1 WBFC has gone to a changed format, mixing Bluegrass Gospel and Southern Gospel in the morning with some family programming and spending most of their 24 hour day playing Contemporary Christian music. Not many stations are willing to do that, but the Combs family wanted to reach all of their listeners.

For those wanting to hear good music with a Godly message, its should be a win-win scenario. At least that is what the Combs family is hoping for.

"We have been wanting to get more church pastors involved with promoting our station and we found that some have a more contemporary style of praise and worship in their churches," James Combs, owner of WBFC and a pastor at the West Bend First Church of God. "We wanted to keep the station as 'family friendly' meaning we had something for everyone. We've played Bluegrass and Gospel music since the station began. So I fought the idea for a while, but over time my mind has been changed."

James and William have taken surveys and found that many of the county's church-goers admit to listening to contemporary music. The message that Southern Gospel has been giving for decades has been updated and the younger generation is hearing it now.

The radio station began operations in 1975 when Forest Drake started it. In the late 70's or early 80's Roger Wells took over, according to Combs, and then Jerry Wilson had it. He sold the station to Bud Parks, who at one time also owned WSKV. Parks held the station for six years and then Combs purchased it.

"The station has moved from Morris Creek when it started, to Cox Street (where the Combs used to broadcast from their home) to our current location on Paint Creek," Combs said. "It has been Bluegrass and Southern Gospel all those years,

Powell’s retired teachers discuss Kentucky’s retirement system

The Powell County Retired Teachers met Friday, July 11, in the Noss Community Center. Darryl Abner opened the meeting with pledge to the flag. Mary Back let in prayer. Those present had brought sandwiches, chips and desserts. Following lunch and a time of fellowship, President Karen Gilbert called the meeting to order. All committee reports were presented. Cebert Gilbert was the speaker and his topic was New Retirees/ Financial Condition of the Kentucky Teacher Retirement system. It is important for new retirees to attend these meetings to keep up to date on the retirement system.

Members present were Billy Rose, Darryl and Linda Abner, Nellie Anderson, Janice Trent, Bea Snowden, Janet Foster, Kay Epperson, Carol Howell, Mary Back, Karen and Cebert Gilbert, and Jean Derickson. Jerlene Rose was a guest.

Our next meeting will be Aug. 8 at Natural Bridge. Brenda Campbell will be guest speaker concerning Natural Bridge Association/Artisan Festival.

Bring school supplies which are divided among the three elementary schools. We also need any gifts for door prizes for our Fall Workshop on Aug. 25. Please try to attend.

Sheltowee Trace: Kentucky’s longest trail system turns 35

The Sheltowee Trace was officially dedicated as part of the National Recreation Trail system in 1979. After 35 years, the trail remains as Kentucky’s longest distance trail, currently estimated at 307 miles.

“The Sheltowee Trace is a major tourist attraction for eastern Kentucky,” said Forest Supervisor Frank Beum, Daniel Boone National Forest.

“The trail takes visitors through some of the most scenic natural areas that you’ll find anywhere, and you can enjoy this spectacular scenery year round,” added Beum.

The trail is managed for multiple recreational uses, which include hiking, horse-back riding, mountain biking and, in some designated sections, off-highway vehicles.

Steve Barbour, executive director of the Sheltowee Trace Association, a volunteer non-profit organization that helps maintain the trail, says the Trace has grown in prominence over the last few years. The trail is recognized both locally and nationally as a significant opportunity for outdoor recreation.

“The trail’s 35th anniversary is good reason to celebrate,” said Barbour. “The Sheltowee Trace helps support our local economies through tourism, luring thousands of outdoor enthusiasts each year to our forests and wilderness areas.”

The STA volunteers work to keep the trail clear of fallen trees, build stairs, bridges and other trail structures, install and maintain signs, and conduct other trail maintenance activities.

From north to south, the Sheltowee Trace stretches from Rowan County to its southern terminus in Tennessee. All but about 28 miles of the trail occur in Kentucky.

The trail is named after Daniel Boone, who was given the name Sheltowee by Chief Blackfish of the Shawnee Tribe. In Shawnee, the name means “Big Turtle.”

The trail transects through portions of the Daniel Boone National Forest, Big South Fork National River and Recreation Area, Cumberland Falls State Resort Park, Natural Bridge State Resort Park, and along the shores of the Cumberland River, Cave Run Lake and Laurel River Lake.

A portion of the trail in Rowan County is currently undergoing relocation. Approximately 11 miles will be rerouted to include the city limits of Morehead, which was recently declared a Kentucky Trail Town. The relocation will reduce the amount of trail connections along two major highways.

The Clay City Water Office will be closed Wednesday, July 30 through Friday, Aug. 1 for training. Sorry for the inconvenience.

Congressman Barr responds to newspaper report

Serving the people of the Sixth District

By CONGRESSMAN ANDY BARR
Ky 6th District

The Herald-Leader’s distortion of my office spending is just the type of negative, political, business-as-usual attack by Washington Democrats like Nancy Pelosi and Barack Obama I am fighting to change.

I returned more than $50,000 to the Treasury from my office budget last year. I spent $300,000 less on personnel than my predecessor; have fewer staff; pay $20,000 less in district office rent, and provide greater service, conducting outreach to constituents who say they have never before been asked for their suggestions, ideas and opinions.

We hold coffees, town halls, coalition meetings and conference calls with constituents; request input via questionnaires; provide legislative updates; and let constituents know how we can help them. We’ve helped over 2,300 constituents fight federal bureaucracy in my first 18 months in office, ensuring veterans receive their benefits; helping seniors make sense of Medicare; and standing up to the IRS, EPA and USDA. All mailings are approved by a bipartisan Commission that prohibits campaign-style references.

I do not fly first class; brought my own healthcare to Washington; do not participate in taxpayer-funded health insurance; and introduced legislation to increase accountability and transparency in our government, including bills to cut compensation of Members of Congress who do not responsibly manage our nation’s finances; require Congress to live by laws it writes for the American people, including Obamacare; imposing term limits on Members of Congress; prohibiting Members of Congress from being paid if they don’t pass a budget.

I am proud of our accountability and service.

When it comes to helping smokers quit, states are lacking in coverage

With more than 8 million Americans now accessing health insurance through new options in the Affordable Care Act (ACA), there has never been a more crucial time for policymakers and insurance plans to act to save lives—and public dollars-by expanding and easing access to tools and treatments to help smokers quit, according to the American Lung Association’s “Helping Smokers Quit: Tobacco Cessation Coverage 2014” report.

Released today (July 22), the annual report notes that many lives and billions of state and federal dollars– including over $800 million in Medicaid spending –could be saved by ensuring that coverage under the ACA comprehensively helps smokers end their nicotine addiction.

The Lung Association’s annual report reviews each state’s efforts to help smokers quit and provides an up-to-date look at federal coverage and requirements for quit smoking treatments under the Affordable Care Act.

Kentucky Needs to Do More to Help Smokers Quit

Kentucky Medicaid plans cover one tobacco cessation medication, but otherwise coverage of the other six FDA-approved medications and three types of cessation counseling varies by health plan.

The state’s marketplace benchmark essential health benefit plan does not provide coverage of any medications.

While Kentucky does not require co-payments for tobacco cessation, step therapy or lifetime limits on quit attempts, there are variations among plans on annual limits on quit attempts, requirements for prior authorization, counseling and length of treatment.

“Kentucky has made great strides in opening up access to healthcare to thousands of residents through its health insurance marketplace,” said Barry Gottschalk, President and CEO of the American Lung Association of the Midland States. “However, figuring out what tobacco cessation assistance is available can be daunting for smokers seeking to quit. We call on our state officials to remove barriers and provide clear information on what coverage people can expect across all plans.”

States Could Save Up to $833 Million in Medicaid Spending

The report noted that significant savings in public spending could be achieved by making sure smokers on Medicaid have broader access to comprehensive smoking cessation resources.

People enrolled in traditional Medicaid smoke at much higher rates than the general population (30.1 percent versus 18.1 percent for ages 18–65). Smoking-related diseases cost Medicaid programs an average of $833 million in taxpayer dollars per state in 2013.

The Lung Association’s report determined that:

- Kentucky is not among the 35 states that charge copays for tobacco cessation treatments for individuals enrolled in Medicaid. This should encourage Kentuckians to use available treatments;
- Only two states provide comprehensive cessation coverage for all Medicaid enrollees: Indiana and Massachusetts.

Tobacco use is the leading preventable cause of death in the United States, costing our economy up to $333 billion annually. In the report, the American Lung Association asserts that:

- Every smoker, including those on Medicaid, needs access to a comprehensive tobacco cessation benefit
- Quit smoking treatments must be provided at no cost and be easy to access
- Insurance plans and employers should publicize what treatments are available and how to access them
- Insurance plans and employers should not make it harder for tobacco users to afford health insurance by charging them more in premiums

A comprehensive quit smoking benefit includes all medications FDA-approved for smoking cessation and three types of cessation counseling recommended by the Love a good battle, but . . .

JAMES COOK

It never ceases to amaze me how some people want to see things done, but do not want to “get involved.” Every time I hear that phrase, I just want to cringe.

I know there are situations where jobs could be in danger or lives at stake. In those cases, I fully understand a reluctance to jump into the fray or even to use our God given right to speak up. In fact that God given right, guaranteed us in the First Amendment does have a few rules. Like making sure your not just gossiping or telling things the way you wanted to hear them.

In my line of work I get to hear story after story about how something is wrong with our government, money is missing from certain accounts, people are abusing their authority, there’s a conspiracy to not let the public know what’s going on, Bigfoot lives on Cane Creek . . . OK that one I dismissed pretty quickly. But you get the idea.

It is a newspaper’s job to report the news and to try to keep local leaders, councils and boards as honest as possible. It is our job to report if there is wrong doing. But we have to have this thing called “facts” before we can report it. Like I have to tell some people, just because you heard it doesn’t make it so.

Back when the paper had a crew of four I had more time to investigate a few things and we did come up with information, that could be backed, to find things the community needed to know. But we are now down to me and Sarah, who works part-time probably less than 24 hours a week. She does a great job at what she does and I’m thankful to have her here. But I would never let her get too deep into a story where things could get ugly. In years past I’ve been threatened, shunned, warned that my child is still in Powell County Schools so I need to be careful about looking into stories (some don’t even have anything to do with the schools and the threats came from non-school employees, go figure) and even been told that some people could not wait until I died or left the paper - which ever comes first. It has never stopped me from doing my job, but I would never put Sarah in that position.

I know there are things going on and I need to try to look into them. But I am only one man (though I weigh enough to be two, maybe two and half). I welcome story ideas and information. If you have some credible info and some facts to back it up, then I’ll look into it. I would love to see more people stand up, get involved and take charge. Then maybe I could help them.

But fighting someone else’s battle was something I used to do just for fun when I was younger. Now, as I have gotten older, it is something I pick and choose to do. I will always stand up for what is right, no matter what the consequences. There’s a lot going on and as a community. WE can make sure that the truth is told and that elected officials (and even appointed ones) work for us.

I’m just saying . . .

surcharges could make health insurance unaffordable for tobacco users and their families. Eleven states, however, have chosen to limit or prohibit these surcharges, including Kentucky.

Lack of Information about What Private Health Plans Cover Makes it Hard for Patients to Make Healthcare Choices

With new requirements for preventive services being implemented and more patients enrolling in health coverage through the ACA, the public is encountering barriers to accessing information on what treatments health plans actually cover, including smoking cessation treatments. Patients need this information to make informed choices when selecting and enrolling in healthcare plans. Additionally, this transparency is needed to evaluate whether plans are providing the right treatments to smokers who want to quit and other patients. The American Lung Association urges HHS and state policymakers to require that health plans make this information publically available.

To help inform decisions and address outstanding needs for providing comprehensive smoking cessation coverage, the American Lung Association created an Action Plan for Policymakers, listing critical steps to be taken by the federal government, state governments and health plans, employers and health systems to ensure that those who want to quit get the help they need to succeed. The plan can be found as part of the entire report, found at www.lung.org/helpingsmokersquit.

Three Bold Goals

In January 2014, the American Lung Association and our public health and medical partners announced our plans to end tobacco use through the creation of three bold goals:

- Reduce smoking rates, currently at about 18 percent, to less than 10 percent within 10 years;
- Protect all Americans from secondhand smoke within five years; and
- Ultimately eliminate the death and disease caused by tobacco use.

You still got time to splash into summer fun at the water parks

With school getting ready to begin, you may want to take advantage of the next two weekends and ask yourself this question.

Are you ready to ride the waves, float on a lazy river or test your G-force resistance on a swooping water slide? As temperatures climb, splash into these and more summer pleasures at water parks throughout Kentucky.

The state's largest water park, Hurricane Bay at Kentucky Kingdom in Louisville, recently reopened after several years and is bigger and wetter than ever. New attractions include a 12,000-square-foot wave lagoon, a body slide with a 122-foot drop and a unique 52-foot-tall rafting water slide that lets you defy gravity.

At Kentucky Splash Water Park in southeastern Kentucky, you can enjoy a mammoth 18,000-square-foot wave pool and an enticing drift river, along with several slides and pools. Seven slides and a giant tipping bucket are among the many attractions at Splash Lagoon Water Park at Beech Bend Park in Bowling Green.

but there have been a lot of improvements over the years.”

One of those improvements is William, James’ son. William, who is part of the computer and technology generation, has helped to update the station.

“We have it streaming online, we’ve updated our website and we are beginning to utilize apps for Android phones, as well as iPads and iPhones. We’re even setting up a CD Store on our website where listeners can purchase things and we receive part of that as well,” William said. “We have listeners from all over.” He spoke about receiving emails and correspondence from people in Wyoming and Colorado, as well as in Russia and South Africa.

“We have one faithful listener from Pennsylvania who came across us online about five years ago. He’s blind, but he heard our station online and has been listening ever since,” James Combs added. “In fact he calls the station

The new format fits all types of listeners. Bluegrass, Southern Gospel and Country Gospel hit the airwaves from 7 a.m. to 10 a.m. with Daniel Morton and Lanny Rogers doing the honors. Following an hour of some family oriented

There is a between 5 and 6 p.m. for some more family friendly programming and even the Clay City Times News Notes. But then it is back to the music.

“It seemed that a lot of people were listening to KLOVE and we decided why not play the music people want to hear,” Combs said. “You have to keep up with technology and with what people want to hear.”

But with all the changes and the new format, no real problems have popped up. “I thought we would get some complaints. We’ve had about three I think,” William added. “But many of the comments seem to like the change.”

“Our heart is in the ministry. It’s hard because some of it is in business as well. Yet our heart is in the ministry,” Combs said. “We want to reach all the kids and all the parents, so parents don’t have to worry. They will be hearing songs with a Biblical message.”

The change over seems to be going over well and working too. But there was some doubt at first.

“I fought this for a couple of years. It’s just not my style,” James Combs said when asked about the change over. “But I prayed about it and the music ministers to people. That’s what it’s all about.”

You can find the new “family friendly” WBFC at 1470 on the AM dial, on your computer and even on Facebook.

Cows, fall gardens and Farmers Market Customer Appreciation Day are hot topics this week

There’s a reason for that

Back in the winter when it was well below zero and the snow was blowing, lots of local cattle decided it was time to have their babies. This brought

5. Remove your bulls from the herd. Select the removal date to coincide with an approximate 120-day season for your spring-calving cows.

6. Sixty days after removing the bulls from the herd (or at a convenient time near this date), pregnancy check all cows and cull all non-pregnant, dry, breeding-age females that have been running with the bull and all non-pregnant cows with calves 5 months of age or older. Your fall-calving cows have likely either calved or are very close to calving.

7. You may want to consider starting the breeding season of your replacement heifers 20 to 30 days ahead of the final breeding date for your herd. Most extended calving seasons are the result of failure of young cows to rebreed in a timely fashion. The additional 20 to 30 days enhances the opportunity for these young cows to rebreed next season. So, if you have spring-calving cows, replacement heifer breeding season would start around April 10, and these females would begin calving around Jan. 20. This may be a bit early for calving, and you might experience 1 to 2 percent higher calf loss. Financially, 1 to 2 percent loss is easier to swallow than a 25 percent decrease in pregnancy rate the following year.

8. The second year, follow the same system as outlined above except remove the bull on the week of July 20. If you have fall and spring-calving cows, then put the bull in for the fall cows around Nov. 20 and remove him around Jan. 20.

For more information on calving management and other beef topics, contact the Powell County Cooperative Extension Service.

Educational programs of the Cooperative Extension Service serve all people regardless of race, color, sex, religion, disability or national origin.

Time to start those fall Gardens

It just seems like we planted our corn and beans just a few weeks ago, but the calendar tells us that it almost time to plant those fall vegetables. Till up those areas that once were full of cucumbers, beans or zucchini and plant your fall crops. Refer to this table for dates for planting the last vegetables of summer and fall:

Vegetable	last safe date to plant
Green beans	July 25-August 1
Beets	August 1-10
Carrots	July 15-August 1
Cabbage, Broccoli, Cauliflower	seed trays July 15-25; Set plants August 1-10
Turnips	August 1-15
Kale, Mustard greens	September 1
Lettuce	August 1-15
Spinach	September 1

Farmer’s Market Customer Appreciation Days scheduled

How can anyone not know about the Powell County Farmer’s market? If you haven’t been yet you need to go next weekend. This year’s Farmer’s Market Customer Appreciation days will be Thursday, July 31 in Clay City and Friday, Aug. 1 in Stanton. There will be free hot dogs and drinks to all customers from 11 a.m. -1 p.m. and special door prizes and give-aways throughout the day will be offered as well. There will be new recipes to try out and many new vendors to greet you during these days. We invite all our Farmers Market customers to this special day as we say “thank You” for stopping buy and buying our fruits and veggies.

KSP warns about leaving children in a hot car

July may have been cooler than normal, but there still have been some really hot day. Inside a car a cool-ish 80 degree day can turn into a quick 120 degrees inside a car. And with the hottest month of the year, August, just around the corner, you really need to be aware of some simple rules.

The Kentucky State Police remind parents not to leave a child alone in a hot car as temperatures in the Bluegrass are on the rise. It may seem like common sense, but every year law enforcement agencies answer calls about unattended children in vehicles. The National Safety Council (NSC) reports that nine children have already died in 2014 from being left in hot cars across the U.S.

An ongoing study by San Francisco State University estimates that since 1998, there have been 615 heatstroke deaths of children left in vehicles, an average of 38 deaths per year. Most of those deaths were children under the age of two-years.

In 2000, Kentucky passed “Bryan’s Law,” which makes a person liable for second-degree manslaughter or first-degree wanton endangerment for leaving a child younger than eight years of age in a motor vehicle where circumstances pose a grave risk of death. The law was named after 11-month old Bryan Puckett, who died July 13, 1999 after being left in a hot car by his babysitter.

KSP spokesman Sgt. Michael Webb says most people know the dangers of leaving a child in a hot car, but each year these senseless tragedies continue to occur.

“A child’s body heats up three to five times faster than that of an adult,” says Webb. “The temperature inside a car can rise 19 degrees in 10 minutes. Together, this can be deadly in a very short period of time.”

Kentucky’s last reported death from a child being left in a car was during 2012 in Louisville. The NSC reports that 44 children died last year from vehicular heatstroke in the U.S.

Webb offers the following safety tips:

- Never leave a child in an unattended car, even with the windows down.

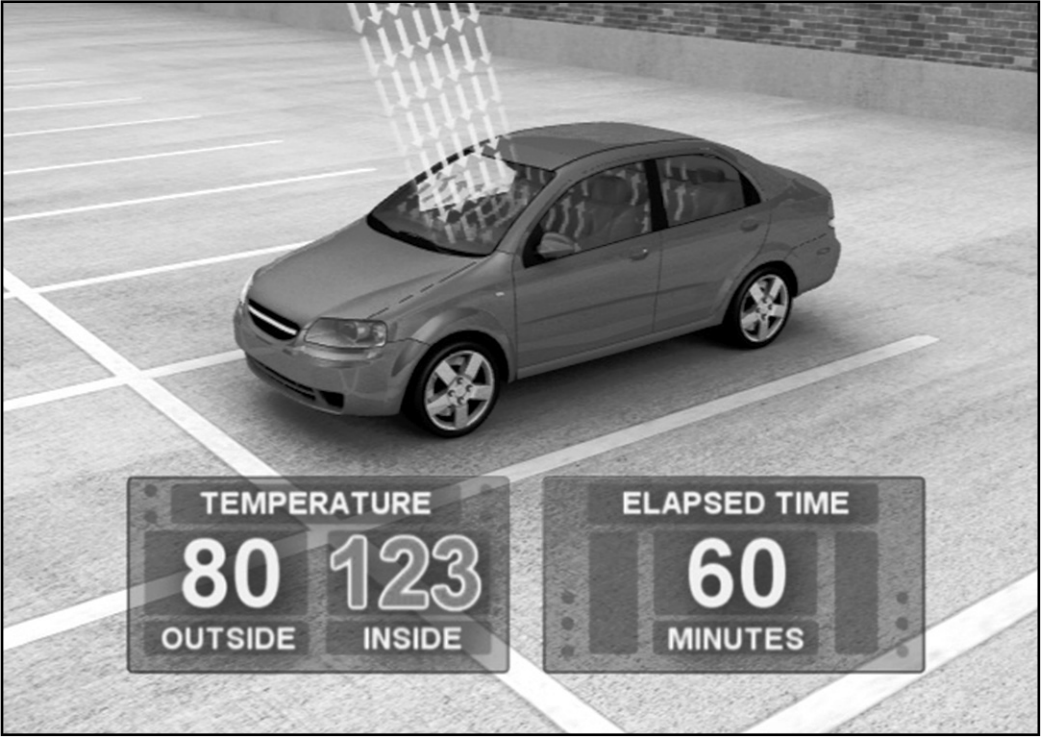

- Be sure that all occupants leave the vehicle when unloading. Don’t overlook sleeping babies.
- Always lock your car. If a child is missing, check the car first, including the trunk. Teach your children that vehicles are never to be used as a play area.

• Keep a stuffed animal in the car seat and when the child is put in the seat place the animal in the front with the driver as a reminder.

- Place your purse or briefcase in the back seat as a reminder that you have your child in the car.
- Make ‘look before you leave’ a routine whenever you get out of the car.

Webb says while a person will face criminal charges for leaving a child in a car, the pain and guilt from making such a mistake will last far longer.

KSP asks citizens to keep an eye out for children left in vehicles on hot days and to call 911 if they think the occupant is in danger.

New office offers services, support for children and adults with autism

The Commission for Children with Special Health Care Needs (CCSHCN) has announced a new Office of Autism has been established at the agency.

The Office of Autism will create a centralized location to coordinate statewide and regional efforts to enhance the quality of life and independence to individuals with an autism spectrum disorder and to support their families and caregivers.

The office will improve coordination of autism resources within the system of care supporting both children and adults with autism and help make those resources available to families and self-advocates. The office will provide administrative support to the Advisory Council on Autism Spectrum Disorders to unify and promote initiatives aimed at improving Kentucky’s system of care.

The CCSHCN has a long history of serving as a coordinator of services in the sometimes fragmented health care system to help ease the burden of chronic conditions for families and individuals. CCSHCN’s new autism office will work to coordinate throughout the cabinet with others that currently provide services and supports to families and individuals coping with behavioral manifestations of autism spectrum disorders. These agencies include the Department for Behavioral Health, Developmental and Intellectual Disabilities; Department for Medicaid Services; Department for Community Based Services; Department of Public Health; and Family Resource and Youth Service Centers. The CCSHCN will also coordinate with other state agencies, such as Kentucky Department for Education.

Amy Cooper-Puckett has been selected as the director for the new office.

“Kentucky has an opportunity to integrate physical and behavioral health services for persons on the Autism Spectrum and it is my privilege to participate in this initiative as the Director for the Office of Autism,” she said.

For more information about the Office of Autism, please contact Amy Cooper-Puckett, LCSW, at the Commission for Children with Special Health Care Needs, 333 Waller Ave., Suite 300, Lexington KY 40504, 859-252-3170, ext. 3003.

Encouraging word: The foundation of a nation

Howard Coop
Guest Columnist

Early in my educational experience, I was introduced to Patrick Henry, one of the founding fathers of our nation. Henry was an ardent supporter of the American Revolution and its struggle for independence. But he is primarily remembered for a line from a speech he gave in St. John’s Church in Richmond, Virginia in 1775. In that famous speech, he said, “Forbid it, Almighty God! I know not what course others may take; but as for me, give me liberty or give me death!”

After the colonies became independent and a constitution for the new nation had been written and adopted, Patrick Henry strongly supported amending the constitution by adding the Bill of Rights, the first of which is: “Congress shall make no law respecting the establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof.”

Patrick Henry was a man of faith. His last will and testament gives significant insight into his beliefs. In the last paragraph of his will, he wrote, “I have now disposed of all my property to my family; there is one thing more I wish I could give them, and that is the Christian faith. If they had this, and I had not given them one shilling, they would be rich; but if they had not that, and I had given them all the world, they would be poor.”

Thomas Jefferson said, “Can the liberties of a nation be thought secure, when we have removed their only firm basis, a conviction in the minds of the people that these liberties are the gift of God?”

The founding fathers of his nation gave us the basic principles and ideals that became the foundation of the nation.

Now, those basic principles and ideals are under attack. There are those who desire to remove them in order to created a secular nation. Case after case has gone to the courts, and court ruling have become restrictive. If certain things are associated with religious practices, they are unlawful and those rulings prohibit “the free exercise” of religion.

MASTER COMMISSIONER'S SALES

July 26, 2014

Pursuant to and compliance with the Judgment and Order of Sale of the Powell Circuit Court, The Commissioner will offer for sale at public outcry, to the highest and best bidder on July 26, 2014, beginning at the hour of 9:00 a.m. local time, at the Courthouse Door, Stanton, Kentucky property described in the action set out below.

Said property shall be sold to raise the amounts hereinafter set forth, together with interest and the costs of the action, and upon the following terms and conditions.

(A) At the time of sale the successful bidder shall either pay cash or make a deposit of ten(10%) percent of the purchase price with the balance on credit for thirty (30) days UNLESS OTHERWISE SHOWN AT THE END OF A PARTICULAR SALE.

Or the purchaser shall have the privilege of paying all or a greater portion thereof than ten percent (10%) at the date of purchase or of prepaying the balance of the purchase price with accrued interest.

In the event the successful bidder desires or elects to credit the balance, he or she will be required to post bond and furnish an acceptable surety thereon. Said bond shall be for the unpaid purchase price and bear interest at the rate of twelve (12%) percent per annum from the date of sale until paid.

The bond shall have the force and effect of a judgment in order to secure the payment of the balance of the purchase price and said bond shall constitute a prior and superior lien on the property until paid.

No bond or earnest money shall be required in the event that the Plaintiffshereto shall be the purchasers and the bid is less than their adjudged lien.

(B) The purchasers shall be required to assume and pay all taxes or assessments upon the property for the 2014 taxes, the current tax year and all subsequent years.

All taxes or assessments upon the property for prior years shall be paid from the sale proceeds.

The property shall further be sold subject to any delinquent State, County and /or City real estate taxes sold pursuant to the provisions of KRS Chapter 134 to any private purchaser during the pendency of this action.

(C) The property shall otherwise be sold free and clear of any right, title and interest of all parties to the action and of their liens and encumbrances there on, and all existing liens recorded after the recording of the plaintiff's Lis Pendens Notice; excepting and subject to however, easements, restrictions, stipulations and covenants of record in the Powell County Court Clerk's Office, any facts which an inspection and accurate survey of the property may disclose, and any assessments for public improvements levied against the property.

(D) Purchasers shall not be entitled to the possession of the real estate until the Court's confirmation of the sale and the payment in full of the purchase price and delivery of the deed unless the Plaintiffs' are the purchasers.

(E) Risk of loss of the improvements of the real property shall pass to the purchaser or purchasers at the time of sale.

The successful bidders may, (unless otherwise stated at the end of a sale) from the date of sale until the purchase price is fully paid, carry fire and extended coverage insurance on the improvements on such property to the extent of the court appraised value of said improvements or the unpaid balance of the purchase price, whichever is less, with a loss clause payable to the Master Commissioner of the Powell Circuit Court.

(F) Upon default of the payment of the deposit or posting of bond by the purchaser, the Master Commissioner shall immediately re-sell the property upon the same terms and conditions set out herein.

(G) If the total purchase price is not paid in cash, the ten percent (10%) deposit made by the purchaser shall be applied to any expenses incurred by a default of the purchaser

FURTHER INFORMATION REGARDING THESE SALES CAN BE FOUND IN THE POWELL CIRCUIT CLERK'S OFFICE BY THE FILE NAME AND NUMBER LISTED FOR EACH SALE.

PROSPECTIVE BIDDERS ARE ADVISED AND ENCOURAGED TO CHECK THIS, THE REFERENCED DEED IN THE POWELL COUNTY CLERK'S OFFICE AND THE PROPERTY EVALUATOR'S OFFICE FOR MORE DETAIL. THE MASTER COMMISSIONER WILL HAVE NO ADDITIONAL INFORMATION NOT CONTAINED IN THESE OFFICES, THE SALES WILL PRECEDE ONE RIGHT AFTER THE OTHER COMMENCING AT THE APPOINTED HOUR.

Cavities! Tooth decay! Who wants to deal with that?

(Editor's Note: Due to the shortage of newspapers we had last week we wanted to print this column again so more people who did not see it last week can see it this week. Dr. Stowe brings up some good points for both kids and adults.)

By DR. ADAM STOWE
Guest Column

In my job, there are days when I feel like the bad guy, or the bearer of bad news because I have the responsibility to inform my patients that they have a dental problem that needs attention. Most of the time, the issue is related to tooth decay. Sometimes the decay is leaking in around an old filling. Other times, it started because of the deep grooves that developed within the tooth that were not reachable with the toothbrush. These situations are unfortunate and can happen in spite of the best efforts of the patient and I am sympathetic to them. However, I want to bring attention to a very common factor in tooth decay and attempt to give hope to anyone who wants to gain control and bring predictability to their oral health. What's the factor? It goes by many names: Soft Drinks, Pop, Soda, Coke, or more commonly around here- Ale 8!

Relax! I'm not going to suggest that you have to empty all the pop out of your refrigerator. But I'm convinced that some awareness needs to be brought to the subject so that the public can understand why soft drinks can be so destructive to teeth. First of all, hear me say that I'm not totally against soft drinks. I also eat Oreos, Doritos, and other junk food. But before anyone takes that as a green light to stop worrying about their intake, hear me out on this very important issue.

The WAY that soft drinks are consumed is more important than whether or not they are consumed. It's all about the amount of time the sugar and acid are allowed to have exposure to the teeth and it really doesn't matter whether it's regular or diet. Studies have shown that diet pop is just as acidic as regular, sometimes more. And the acid is what wreaks havoc on tooth enamel. Frequent exposure of teeth to the acidity of soft drinks will begin to decalcify, or weaken the enamel. Once it goes on long enough, day in and day out, that weakened enamel is a sitting duck for the natural bacteria in the mouth to start a cavity. Since there are 28 teeth in the adult mouth, not counting wisdom teeth, you can see how this can be quite a big problem. In fact, depending on how long the process is allowed to go on, some teeth might need to be extracted.

I'd like to give some direction to anyone who has an open ear about this topic. First of all, if you are dealing with the dental effects of regular pop consumption, see your dentist. The worst thing for you to do is to ignore it because decay always progresses. Also, if anyone is interested in being extreme and is willing to eliminate soft drinks entirely from your household, more power to you! I'll be your biggest cheerleader. However, I try to be a realist and understand that it's not likely that people will take that approach.

Here are some tips for responsible soft drink consumption:

1) Moderation! Simply don't drink a lot of soft drinks. Consider it a treat. Reward yourself with it after some accomplishment. Parents, let your kids have pop if they're having a sleepover or watching a movie. Just put some sort of boundary in place to keep it in moderation and don't let it turn into an everyday habit.

2) If you're going to drink soft drinks, drink them with meals. Chewing food keeps the sugar and acid from having so much contact with the teeth and reduces the bad effects.

3) Don't sip soft drinks over long periods of time throughout the day! This way of drinking is probably the biggest reason people develop major problems with their teeth associated with soft drinks. It would be better to drink 3 in a row in 30 minutes than to sip one while working at your desk that lasts you all day long. Don't be a sipper!

4) Drink water after drinking soft drinks. The goal here is to get the residue off the teeth. Remember, there is a film of sugar and acid left on the teeth after drinking soft drinks. Getting it off quickly reduces the exposure time.

5) Brush your teeth after drinking soft drinks. Keep a toothbrush in your car or at work so that you can brush during the day.

6) Never drink soft drinks and then go to bed without brushing and certainly don't keep a can or bottle of it on the nightstand by your bed so that you can sip it through the night. That's asking for trouble.

There are probably more ways to handle soft drinks responsibly but these are just a few that will give you a good start to reducing your risk of tooth decay caused by soda pop. And don't forget that if you want to get serious and extreme (gazelle-intensity, as Dave Ramsey would say), it's possible to quit soft drinks altogether. However, if you're going to consume soft drinks, please drink responsibly.

DIVINITY

Patty Patrick, Irvine
2 ½ cups sugar
½ cup light corn syrup
½ cup cold water
2 egg whites, stiffly beaten
1 tsp vanilla extract
1 cup chopped nuts

Combine sugar, syrup, and water in saucepan and stir over low heat until sugar dissolves. Cook until candy thermometer registers 260 F or until a little of the mixture dropped into cold water forms a very hard ball. Remove from heat and cool slightly. Pour very slowly over egg whites, beating constantly. Continue beating until mixture becomes very stiff and loses its gloss. A final beating with a hand whisk improves texture. Add vanilla and nuts and pour into a greased 9x9x2 inch pan. Cool and cut into squares.

BARBECUPS

Patty Biram, Pine Ridge
¾ pounds ground beef
½ cup barbecue sauce
1 Tbsp minced onion
2 Tbsp brown sugar
1-10 count can biscuits
¾ cups shredded cheddar cheese

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Brown ground beef; drain. Stir in bbq sauce, minced onion, and brown sugar. Place one biscuit in each of 10 ungreased muffin cups; press dough up sides to edge of cup. Spoon hot meat mixture into cups. Sprinkle each cup with shredded cheddar cheese. Bake 10-15 minutes until golden. Refrigerate any leftovers.

CHICKEN CASSEROLE

Patty Biram, Pine Ridge
1 box stove top stuffing
1 stick margarine, melted
1 cup chicken broth
½ cup mayonnaise
2 eggs, beaten
¾ tsp salt
1 can cream of chicken soup
2 ½ cups cooked chicken, shredded
½ cup cheddar cheese
½ cup milk
Add ½ cup onion, celery or rice if desired

Combine stove top stuffing and margarine, mix well. Press on bottom of 13x9 inch casserole dish. Next, mix broth, mayonnaise, eggs, salt and cream of chicken soup. Add cooked shredded chicken, mix well, and pour over stuffing mixture. Sprinkle with cheddar cheese, pour ½ cup milk on top and bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes.

‘The face of Slade is changing’

Boone Forest Shop to close their doors after 42 years

By TOM GUGLIELMO
Special to the Times

When you get off Exit 33 on the Mountain Parkway you have reached an area which is known as Slade. It is the home to Natural Bridge State Park and the gateway to the Red River Gorge and The Daniel Boone National Forest. For the past 42 years, Charlie and Phyllis Cable have managed their store, Boone Forest Shop, located at 918 Natural Bridge Road in Slade.

Either Charlie or Phyllis have been there almost every day during this time. It adds up to over 12,000 days. Charlie was born in Wolfe County, attended Wolfe County High School and is a 1964 graduate of Eastern Kentucky University. Phyllis was also born in Wolfe County and attended Wolfe County High School. They were high school sweethearts.

After teaching for several years in the Wolfe County School District, Charlie left teaching, and he and Phyllis built The Boone Forest Shop in 1972. They have been there four decades and through eight United States Presidents.

Charlie is a past president and founding member of the Powell County Chamber of Commerce. He has also been president of the Natural Bridge Park Association, and remains an active member. Phyllis is also active in this organization.

Charlie and Phyllis are retiring at the end of this season. When asked what he was going to do, he said “Kick back and do what I want to do instead of what I have to do.”

They are having a ‘Going out of business sale with 50% off almost everything in the store. They are also selling the building and over an acre of land. The building has multiple potential uses. It will be fun to see what new business comes to this site.

The bestselling item in the store over the years has been

The Boone Forest Shop, which has been operated by Charlie and Phyllis Cable for 42 years, will close the shop at the end of the season.

T-shirts. A recent addition in the past few years has been fudge and it has become the store’s second best seller.

A high point for Charlie and Phyllis over the years has been meeting people from around the United States and around the world. Mr. Fisher of Fisher Bodies once came by in a large motor home.

Recently Edna Hager sold her store, The Daniel Boone Trading post. With Edna, Charlie and Phyllis all leaving, the face of Slade is changing. If the new owners and businesses are anything like the old ones, Slade will be lucky. The Slade area will miss Charlie and Phyllis.

This one time, at band camp . . .

With a beautiful blue sky above and temperatures nearing the upper 80’s, the Powell County Marching Pirates started their annual band camp on Monday. Despite a few changes in the classes this year the band is hoping for a ninth straight trip to the State Marching Band Competition.

Firefighters responded to a house fire on Little Brush Creek Road Saturday evening. The fire departments have been quite busy around the county in recent weeks. A fire on Virden Springs Road late Sunday night had them returning again early Monday morning. Some of the fires have been considered suspicious and an arson investigator has been called in on several of the fires.

Kentucky Afield Outdoors: Practice safety at the shooting range

By KEVIN KELLY
Special to the Times

The cooler temperatures and lower humidity that spread across Kentucky this week made it feel more like early fall than the dog days of summer.

Fall hunting season seems closer with a crispness in the air in mid-July. And in reality, it isn’t far off. Early fall squirrel season in Kentucky opens in less than a month.

Spending time at the shooting range now not only is fun but it’s also a sure-fire way to ensure you’ll be ready when it counts this fall.

“Ranges are established places where people go to shoot rifles, pistols, shotguns, even archery,” said Bill Balda, Hunter Education Supervisor with the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. “Rarely are all of these done at the same time and at the same range.”

Kentucky Fish and Wildlife has public shooting ranges (tube, trap and skeet, and archery) on select wildlife management areas in Kentucky. A complete list is available online at fw.ky.gov.

These public shooting ranges are self-serve, trap and skeet ranges are open to organized clubs or groups and must be reserved 30 days in advance – and users must comply with the posted rules. Some of the guidelines are based on courtesy; the majority focus on safety.

“When you get to a range, there should be a sign that clearly marks what the range is for,” Balda said. “Be aware of what you can and cannot use on each range because these ranges are placed and have safety zones according to the firearms they’re designed to handle.”

The basic rules of firearms safety still apply at the range:

Treat every firearm as if it’s loaded. Keep the action open and the firearm unloaded until you’re ready to fire.

Make sure you point the firearm in a safe direction. At a range, that’s designated as toward the target. Never point it at yourself or others.

Keep your finger off the trigger until you’re ready to shoot.

Know your target and what’s in front of or behind it.

“Probably the most common thing I see on rifle ranges is people still handling a firearm on the firing line while people are down range,” Balda said. “For safety and courtesy that’s something you shouldn’t do when people have gone down range to work on targets.”

The same applies for shotguns.

“From time to time people need to go down to the trap houses and reload the thrower,” Balda said. “Again, you should not be handling your firearms when someone does that. Most shotgun ranges are pretty good about having a rack to put your shotgun in when you’re not shooting.”

Aside from proper handling of firearms, there are two other safety measures to keep in mind.

Eye and ear protection are required at all times.

Depending on the weather, an anti-fog lens cleaner may need to be applied to safety glasses.

“Another thing that helps keep your glasses from fogging up is to take off your hat,” Balda said.

Hearing damage is irreversible, and the sound of your firearm going off should not be the signal to protect your ears.

Balda advises wearing ear plugs and ear muffs when shooting anything other than a .22 caliber firearm.

“With a .22, I recommend one or the other,” Balda said.

As more people visit the shooting range with the fall hunting season drawing closer, be even more aware of what’s going on around you. Don’t be bashful about calling for a cease fire if you observe a potentially dangerous situation.

“Everyone should stop shooting and figure out what’s going on and fix it,” Balda said. “It’s not a big deal. Just get it done. If someone gets hurt then it’s a big deal.”

Graduated Drivers License course now offered online

The Kentucky Transportation Cabinet (KYTC) today announced an online version of the Graduated Driver License course for teaching safe driving techniques to beginning drivers.

The online program represents a fourth option for completing the course, which is required before a learner’s permit can be replaced with an unrestricted driver’s license.

Until now, three options were available:

- A four-hour Graduated Driver License course provided by KYTC in the driver’s home county. The course is offered for free, and at least two courses are held per year in each of the state’s 120 counties.
- High school driver’s education course or a similar course offered by a Kentucky community college, vocational School or Job Corps.
- Private driver training course at a driver training school approved by the KYTC Division of Driver Licensing.

The new, fourth option is an online course administered by I Drive Safely, a driver education website.

“Our hope is to make options available for every situation,” said Rodney Kuhl, KYTC commissioner of the Department of Vehicle Regulation. “We understand people have busy schedules, and this new online option just adds another convenient way for those struggling to find time for our classroom course.”

The online course, which costs $15, takes about four hours to complete. The course can be taken when convenient for the driver and at the driver’s own pace, as long as the course is completed within 270 days of the initiated login. The money charged for the course is collected by the website administering the course, not the state.

Nearly 35,000 students take the Graduated Driver License course each year. Students taking the online course may have to wait 24 to 48 hours before completion of the course shows up on their driving records. But after the course is complete, a confirmation email will be sent to the student. The course is available online at <http://teen.idrivesafely.com/Kentucky/>.

Once drivers have completed the course, along with other requirements under Kentucky’s Graduated Driver License Law, they are eligible for an unrestricted driver’s license. Guidelines for the state’s Graduated Driver License Law can be found online at transportation.ky.gov/Driver-Licensing/Pages/Graduated-Driver-Licensing-Program.aspx.

Commissioner Kuhl said the public’s interest in online driver training became apparent after launch of an online version of State Traffic School for drivers cited for traffic violations.

“The online Graduated Driver License Course is a logical extension of our services and another way to increase convenience for those looking for classes,” Commissioner Kuhl said.

Gun safety is a must.
Remember hunting seasons are just around the corner
